Re: Participant Physical Exam

To Whom It May Concern:

Per your request, _____ a prospective participant (“Participant”) in the television series currently entitled “America’s Got Talent” (the “Series”) has undergone a comprehensive screening examination, including a review of past medical history, assessment of all current or active medical conditions and medications, and a basic physical examination. In addition, comprehensive laboratory testing was performed. I have been informed of the nature of the Series and the general nature of the physical activities that the Participant may perform in connection with his or her participation in the Series. Accordingly, I have checked one box below to describe the Participant’s ability to participate in the Series:

- Based on the above information, and assuming that the Participant has answered all questions completely and accurately, I believe that this Participant has no known medical condition or physical disability that would preclude participation in the Series.
- Based upon reasonable probability of possible transmission of illness or possible injury to self or fellow contestants, I believe this Participant will require the following further testing or accommodation in order to participate in the Series: _____

- Based upon reasonably probability of possible transmission of illness or possible injury to self or fellow contestants, I believe this Participant should not participate in the Series.
