HOLLYWOOD
GAME NIGHT
SUNG SONG
WRONG
HOW TO PLAY

This game is head-to-head, so divide yourselves into two TEAMS with at least two people on each TEAM, and pick one person to be both SINGER AND HOST. It’s helpful if your SINGER/HOST can carry a tune. They don’t need to sound like Adele or Lizzo, but hopefully they sound better than your neighbor’s dog barking at the moon.

We’ll provide the game material, which consists of well-known songs with some wrong lyrics. You’ll also need a ring-in device (like a bell, smartphone or computer). It’s best if you have one for each team as it cuts down on ring-in accidents and mishaps...

The HOST calls up one PLAYER from each TEAM. The HOST/SINGER then sings a bit of a popular well-known song, but the last lyric will be hilariously wrong (noted in red). When the HOST/SINGER is finished singing, the first person to ring in and give the CORRECT lyric (noted in green) wins a point for their team. For example, if the HOST/SINGER sings, “Twinkle, Twinkle Little Star, I keep wet wipes in my car....,” the first PLAYER who rings in might answer, “How I wonder what you are.”

If a PLAYER rings in and gets the lyric CORRECT, their TEAM gets the point. If a PLAYER rings in and gets the lyric WRONG, the opposing TEAM has a chance to guess. If that PLAYER gets the lyric CORRECT, their TEAM gets the point. If BOTH TEAMS get it wrong, everyone should hang their head in shame, and no one gets the point.

PLAYERS should do their best to SING the correct lyric when answering, but if you’re pitchy and sound awful, you can just say the answer. Also, WAIT UNTIL THE HOST FINISHES SINGING. No early bird ring-ins. If you do that, you’ll be fined $100 and the HOST can share an embarrassing personal story about you in front of strangers!

After all the songs have been sung, the team with the most points wins! Go ahead. Sing yourselves a victory song. You’ve earned it!
